

Dr. Faiz Shah co-founded Responsible Business Initiative and presently heads Development Management at the Asian Institute of Technology, Bangkok. He has advised governments, companies, NGOs and UN programs on change management and institutional reorganization. On the visiting faculty at Punjab University, he has lectured at Michigan Business School and the Wharton School, trained over 3,000 grassroots government officials and community leaders in Cambodia, Nepal, Pakistan, Sri Lanka and Thailand, and overseen over 300 community service projects in diverse locations. He has led Saga, Pakistan's largest sporting goods company and was among the first working groups members of the Global Reporting Initiative.